1. Introduction

(PARA.1) The European Agency for the Management of Operational Cooperation at the External Borders of the Member States of the European Union (Frontex) has been created by The Council Regulation (EC) 2007/2004/ 26.10.2004 (OJ L 349/25.11.2004). The regulation was amended in 2007 by the Regulation of the Parliament and of the Council of 11 July 2007 establishing the mechanism for the creation of Rapid Border Intervention Teams (RABIT) and regulating the tasks and powers of guest officers. These regulations establish the basis for the development of Frontex, which is recognised as one of the main components of the concept of integrated border management as adopted by the Council in December 2006.

(PARA.2) Whilst fully respecting the principle that the main responsibility of the control and surveillance of the external borders still lies with the Member States and in accordance with the above mentioned Regulation Frontex performs the following tasks:
- coordinate operational cooperation between Member States in the field of management of external borders with regard to the control of persons;
- assist Member States on training of national border guards, including establishment of common training standards;
- carry out risk analysis;
- follow up on the development of research relevant for control and surveillance of external borders;
- assist Member States in circumstances requiring increased technical and operational assistance at external borders;
- provide Member States with necessary support in organising joint return operations.

(PARA.3) The success of the activities of Frontex is based mainly on three factors: i) the recruitment to the Agency of a sufficient number of competent and qualified personnel; ii) the provision of adequate financial resources; and iii) the readiness and willingness of the Member States and Schengen Associated Countries to participate actively in operational cooperation. Particular attention will be paid to the quality of joint operational measures of Frontex with the aim of securing an increased interest in active participation in them from Member States, Schengen Associated Countries and other relevant partners.

(PARA.4) The Programme of Work contains three primary aspects. Firstly, it is the main instrument through which the Management Board oversees the functions of Frontex. Secondly, the Programme of Work ensures the highest possible level of transparency towards the citizens and the institutions of the European Union. And thirdly, the Programme of Work establishes the basis for the adequate financial decisions on the activities it covers. Taking into account these three aspects the Programme of Work builds on the longer term framework described in the Frontex Vision endorsed by the Management Board on 22 March 2007.

(PARA.5) As mentioned in the Hague Programme, the Commission will carry out an evaluation of Frontex tasks. As a result of this evaluation, new tasks could be assigned to Frontex. This Programme of Work, however, sets out the planned activities for 2008 in accordance with the existing mandate of Frontex. Programme of Work 2008, which has been prepared by taking into account the Frontex Vision endorsed by the Management Board on 22 March 2007 can be regarded as a sequel of Programme of Work 2007.
(PARA.6) Since its establishment in October 2005 Frontex has actively carried out its tasks while simultaneously setting up the administrative and financial foundations for itself. So far more than 30 joint operations and pilot projects coordinated by Frontex have been carried out at the external borders of the EU Member States. Nine of those operations, e.g. joint operations HERA, NAUTILUS and POSEIDON were addressed as countermeasures to the illegal immigration flows at the Southern Maritime Borders. During these 685 days of operations nearly 1000 incidents were detected and processed, 63 facilitators were arrested and 14,000 immigrants were diverted back. Apart from the joint operations Frontex has also started development of a more systematic solution for Southern Maritime Borders as called for by the European Council in December 2005. Under the lead of Frontex a group of maritime border experts prepared two feasibility studies; one on the establishment of a technical surveillance system (BORTEC) and another on reinforcing monitoring and surveillance of Southern Maritime Borders (MEDSEA). As a result to the latter, in May 2007, Frontex together with the Member States has started the implementation of European Patrols Network (EPN)⁴ - a permanent regional border security concept that enables the synchronization of national patrolling measures between neighbouring countries. Although the results have been auspicious so far, the challenging next step in the full implementation of the EPN will be the creation of National Coordination Centers. Moreover, the successful implementation of the EPN as well as the findings of BORTEC study will be important step in creation of the European Surveillance System (EUROSUR) - initiative currently being prepared by the Commission.

(PARA.7) In addition to the Southern Maritime Borders another main emphasis for Frontex activities in 2006/2007 has been on the “Balkan Route” of the illegal immigration flows towards the European Union. In order to combat the illegal immigration using Balkan Route Frontex has carried out seven operations (e.g. ARIADNE, KRAS and “Focal Points”) which were divided into several implementation phases. Although most of evaluations are currently ongoing and the final results still under compilation, these joint exercises have clearly demonstrated the added value of the shared EU-level expertise for day-to-day border control. For example, during these operations more than 200 guest officers were deployed, 10 facilitators were apprehended and more than 1500 illegal immigrants were detected.

(PARA.8) All Frontex activities are intelligence driven and based on the recommendations of the risk analysis. To this end the Annual Risk Assessments (ARA) 2005 and 2006 were issued to provide the basis for operations in 2006 and 2007. Furthermore, in addition to the annual assessments Frontex has until now issued 13 tailored risk assessments (with further 9 under preparation) as well as over 40 tactically focused detailed threat/risk assessment linked to major Frontex operational activities.

(PARA.9) Establishing European networks of experts in specified fields of Frontex activities have proven to be successful as well as excessively important way of collecting and sharing border management related information at EU level. During 2006/2007 several expert networks were created e.g. Frontex Risk Analysis Network (FRAN) gathering regularly experts of national analytical units; training networks (partnership academies and training coordinators); BorderTechNet for research and development related issues as well as expert’s network for return matters. The needs and possibilities to establish similar networks in other areas will be constantly explored.

Frontex Programme of Work 2008
In order to achieve the objectives and to fulfil the tasks Frontex carries out a number of specific activities. These activities are based on either Member State’s initiative or on the initiative of Frontex. Participation of Member States in these activities is (co-)financed by Frontex. Particular objectives and tasks have been assigned to each activity in this Programme of Work. Additionally, to each objective the most important outputs are indicated. Planning and implementation of those activities should be based on the following principals:

- compliance with the quality criteria and standards of Frontex;
- effective/efficient implementation;
- timely delivery within the budget.

3. Purpose of Frontex

(PARA.12) Coordination of intelligence driven operational cooperation at EU level to strengthen security at external borders.

4. Mission statement

(PARA.13) Frontex strengthens the freedom and the security of the citizens of the EU by complementing the national border management systems of the Member States.

(PARA.14) Frontex is a trustworthy operational European coordinator and contributor which is fully respected and supported by the Member States and external partners.

(PARA.15) Frontex actively promotes the cooperation among border related law enforcement bodies responsible for the internal security at EU level.

(PARA.16) Frontex operational activities are intelligence driven. The effectiveness of Frontex is based on its highly motivated and professional personnel. In return, Frontex will strengthen its status as a competitive employer.

(PARA.17) Frontex is a key player in the implementation of the concept of EU Integrated Border Management.
5. Priority statement

5.1. Awareness

(PARA.18) Risk analyses will remain fundamental in the core of Frontex methodology. Frontex will systematically maintain and develop a situational picture on the border security status at external borders. Frontex will assess potential scenarios of threat, risk and harm, enabling an advanced planning and allocation of future resources. In this context, Frontex continuously improves its analytical capacity to assess the threats and the vulnerabilities. This will, increasingly, include the assessment of the vulnerabilities of the Member States’ border security systems. It will be required that Frontex risk analyses are more topical, adequate and reliable to serve first and foremost the operational needs of Frontex, but also the Member States and cooperative partners. With this aim, the enhancement of the methodology of the Frontex Risk Analysis Network (FRAN) and its system to exchange strategic information and intelligence with Member States and external actors is seen as a priority.

(PARA.19) Frontex Situation Centre (FSC) will be an essential tool to reliably and promptly manage the daily flows of all operational and analytical information on the situation at the external borders of the EU. Continuously monitoring the situation and potential developments, the FSC will be able to anticipate and identify all possible emergencies without delay and provide an early warning and reaction against of serious irregularities and emergencies at external borders.

(PARA.20) Frontex will also acknowledge its responsibilities in order to provide the qualified technical assistance to the Institutions for the distribution and allocation of Community’s financial resources for border management.

5.2. Response

(PARA.21) The operational activities of Frontex are intelligence driven. This means that all the activities shall be based on the results and the recommendations of risk analysis. Consequently, Frontex focuses its main effort on the identified high risk areas and phenomena of illegal immigration. The overall number of Frontex operations will not be significantly increased. In return, the length of operations will be extended resulting in longer-term and more flexible operations with several operational phases.

(PARA.22) The fundamental principle of intelligence led operations leads Frontex to a requirement that all initiatives proposed internally in Frontex or by a Member State will follow the same procedure of taking operational decisions as adopted by the Management Board of March 2006\(^5\). In practice it means that before becoming the operational activity coordinated and financed by Frontex the initiative will firstly be assessed against the findings and recommendations of risks analysis and situational picture at the external borders. If deemed necessary, updated information or analysis on the initiative will be compiled.

(PARA.23) In 2008 Frontex will continue strengthening its operational capabilities in a systematic way. Main efforts will be addressed to intensified training of Frontex staff and by the using pooled personnel of Frontex Joint Support Teams (FJST) and the Centralised Record of Available Technical Equipment (CRATE). Sustained development of FJSTs is a priority.

\(^5\) Decision of the Management Board of 24 March 2006 on Rules of procedure for taking decisions related to the operational tasks of Frontex.
(PARA.24) Existing cooperation structures, mainly regional, will be used as a platform, when and where appropriate. Frontex will provide technical and managerial support to these regional concepts. The European Patrols Network will be firmly developed and expanded together with the Member States as invited by the Council in September 6.

(PARA. 25) Development of Rapid Border Intervention Teams (RABIT) 7 is a core element of the improved reaction capabilities of Frontex. Procedures for emergency situation will be established. RABIT will be trained and individually prepared for their eventual tasks and operational areas for supporting a Member State in a limited period of time and in exceptional and urgent cases. Particular emergency procedures will be frequently tested. Frontex therefore will assume timely the leadership and the management of the required technical and operational assistance.

5.3. Cooperation

(PARA.26) Considering the fact that in the fight against illegal migration cooperation with third countries plays a very important role, operational cooperation with third countries will be developed gradually and targeted at sustainable partnership. Special efforts will be paid to the intensification of cooperation with relevant authorities of the third countries in the Mediterranean region, Western Africa, Western Balkans, Black Sea region, Central Asia and Far East.

(PARA.27) Practical cooperation will be developed with strategic partners like EUROPOL and other relevant bodies capable to provide structural, technical and operational support to Frontex’ activities; such as specific tasked entities -like EMSA, ESA, etc.-, and international organisations such as INTERPOL.

(PARA.28) Integrated approach to joint operations, which equally takes into account the operational needs as well as the needs for international protection and which furthermore takes duly into account the international law, will be further developed. To facilitate this aim necessary working arrangements with relevant international organisations, such as UNHCR and IOM will be developed. 8

(PARA.29) Frontex Information System (FIS) will be fully established to create a secure and reliable platform for both internal and external communication between Frontex and its partners.

5.4. Performance

(PARA.30) The basic functions and procedures will be still under development in 2008 in order to strengthen the management capacity of Frontex, which primarily consists of the adequate financial and personnel resources and their effective use. Frontex staff deserves particular attention. Adequate and motivating staff policy will establish the basis for high level of professionalism in terms of skills and experience of motivated personnel.

(PARA.31) Mechanisms to improve the efficiency of methods to cope with the increasing administration need to be constantly developed and perfected.

(PARA.32) Frontex sharpens its profile as a specialised body having a fully recognised coordinative role and position within the EU context and among all its partners. This will be further developed by maintaining effective contacts with all relevant actors, in particular with the European Commission, the Council and the European Parliament.

6. Operations Division

The overall objective of the Division is to assess and analyse the threats and risks to the external borders of the EU with the aim to plan, initiate, implement, coordinate and evaluate intelligence-led joint operations and pilot projects on the basis of the findings and recommendations of the risk analysis, by its own initiative or by the initiative of a Member State. With regard to the management of operational activities, all possibilities will be exploited to develop the financial mechanism to become more flexible, timely and less bureaucratic as possible whilst seeking the most cost-effective way.
